

Petition: Stand with the faculty and students at Florida Polytechnic University

Dear Florida Polytechnic University Board of Trustees and Florida SUS Board of Governors, we are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

As students, parents, alumni, and supporters of Florida Polytechnic University and public higher education, we believe that recent decisions by top administrators undermine FPU's potential to achieve its vision¹ of becoming a world-renowned "University of Innovation." They further contradict the FPU mission to:

"...prepare 21st century learners in advanced fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) to become innovative problem-solvers and high-tech professionals through interdisciplinary teaching, leading-edge research and collaborative local, regional and global partnerships."²

No institution of higher learning can thrive without meaningful input from students, faculty and the community. Silencing the voices of students, staff and faculty through intimidation and unjust firings by top administrators will not be tolerated by the broader FPU family or the public.

We, the other FPU stakeholders, have serious concerns about the following actions by the administration and feel they are hampering the university's great potential. Our concerns include, but are not limited to the following:

- The lack of corrective action regarding the substantiated claims in the anonymous letter regarding the "toxic" environment³
- The repeated dismissive reactions to staff, faculty, and student concerns
- The abrupt terminations of several staff who supported students and spoken up about mismanagement (these staff were not let go "for cause")
- The abrupt termination of the only on-campus counselor and the outsourcing of student mental health counseling services without a sufficient transition plan to ensure continuity of care⁴ (the Wellness Counselor was not let go "for cause")

- The abrupt termination of the Assistant Librarian (the only librarian was not let go "for cause"), and
- The non-renewal of outspoken United Faculty of Florida leaders⁵ who have called for accountability and fair processes on campus (the non-renewed Engineering faculty are award winning teaching faculty and top grant earners; they were not let go "for cause").

With all of this in mind, we ask you to:

1. Reverse the terminations of the on-site counseling position and the assistant librarian, the non-renewals of Engineering faculty, and a host of support staff who were terminated for arbitrary and/or retaliatory reasons.
2. Reverse the outsourcing of full time on-campus mental health services and utilize the expertise of SUS mental health experts to return to a model that has both on-campus full-time counselors and supplemental care.

Sincerely,

Concerned students, parents, and supporters of Florida Polytechnic University.

Mental health for the students is essential for them to be successful and confident at this university. This should have never, for any reason, been taken away from them.

The dismantling of the library and staff are unconscionable. As a faculty member at a research university, not only do I depend upon the library, but so do my students for basic learning tasks. Even when most resources are online, students do not know how to access them without staff to guide them in the process, and without libraries to make careful choices over which electronic resources to curate. I am thankful that I do not, and would not ever work at your institution. While I do not believe I am likely to change your mind, I do believe that you will come to regret your decision.

This petition mentions the administration is silencing and intimidating, but this petition could also ask for the state auditor to review the administrators themselves over the last few years. Not allowing inputs, and unusual silencing and intimidation is extreme - can all the other taxpayer money be accounted for?

My son attended Florida Southern College. I was extremely excited, when FPU was originally announced and then opened. In fact I found know a student living out his educational goals at FPU at this time. These concerns and firings are very troubling. Careful attention must be given to staying true to the mission statement and retaining stellar faculty and staff, which has great impact upon attracting and retaining outstanding students. Priorities matter.

I agree with all of the statements above, especially the rehiring of the student trusted on-site coucelor; as well as additional on-site counseling staff. Having students abruptly cut-off from their trusted on-site counce-lor had dire consequences. I do not feel as a parent that at-risk students in need of immediate counseling will be compelled to reach out via phone counseling. On-site professionals that are readily available is the most viable option.

The Board of Trustees is charged with acting in students' best interests-- not their political ideologies. Students benefit from having faculty empowered to speak freely about their courses and working conditions, as well as having qualified and committed professionals like librarians and counselors support their development as students and citizens. The BoT's actions suggest that they view both students and faculty as disposable. The FPU community is watching, BoT. We deserve better. You must do better.

Too many professors that have always had the students interest in mind and have been mysteriously let go. I don't believe it is a coincidence that these professors were the most outspoken about issues here that concern the students. Hopefully we can inspire change and get Poly to its full potential.

I was a victim of the abusive practices carried out by the current leadership or Florida Polytechnic University. I was laid-off only to see my position and exact duties relisted shortly thereafter on the indeed.com job posting site. The behavior of leadership, while violent, manipulative and hurtful to employees and their families, also opens the school up to lawsuits and settlements which further deprive students of a valuable education. Thank you Florida Poly. My lawyers will be in touch.

I am ashamed of what Florida Poly has become. Many of the best and brightest professors from all over the country flocked to Poly in its inaugural years. Very few of those professors remain. The toxic political environment goes beyond a lack of open communication between instructors and the upper management of Poly; these corrosive tensions have seeped down into the student experience. Those of the faculty and staff that tried to fight against the injustices and stand up for students and their peers have been silenced repeatedly and ruthlessly. This must end. We demand accountability. Enough damage has already been done, we must stop the administration before they drive even more brilliant professors and students from our school.

Having seen the systemic effects of a university crumbling like described here, this clearly demonstrates the lack of leadership in the upper administration and potential negative influence from board of trustees members. By firing the only on-campus mental health counselor, FPU shows absolute disregard for its students' health and survival; by firing the only librarian, FPU shows equal disregard for their academic education, the university's nominal reason for existence in the first place. That said, by only having one mental health counselor and one librarian in the first place, FPU's administrators were already demonstrating a bizarre and worrying lack of comprehension of what a university needs to function. If you cannot or will not hire an adequate staff of mental health professionals to care for your essentially campus-bound students, nor enough librarians to assist those students' academic endeavours, you cannot safely or effectively run a university at all.

Transparency is vital between the administration and the stakeholders of Florida Poly; without it, trust will go into a downward spiral. As a third year student at Florida Poly, I have an obligation, a duty, to speak out when the management is going in the wrong direction. Many of the people fired had great relationships and involvement in the student community, much unlike the administration. Those who make bad decisions must be held accountable, regardless of ineptitude.

As a higher education librarian I find it neglectful to not have people who are stewards of information the student body need for education and for life. Information literacy is needed and librarians are the exact people to provide it. The student body is young, away from home, and learning to navigate the world, having someone who is impartial and trustworthy who the student body can turn to is imperative to the well-being of the community. This service should always be available to students. Mental health is just as important as math, science, history and information literacy. Without mental well-being the student can not gain those skills and others they will need as they head into the world. If your children went here would you accept the decisions the school has made and the defense of those decisions?

I am in awe of these amazing students and faculty who have accomplished so much with such unnecessary obstacles from the top university leadership. As the union's Chief Negotiator, I can assure you that the faculty want a fair contract to ensure stability and high quality education and a voice in major decisions — nothing more, nothing less. That's not something to feel threatened by. It is tragic how the top administration has behaved. They see disagreement as disloyalty — outright betrayal even.

The vision for our faculty team is here, check it out: http://www.uff-floridapoly.org/CBA_articles/Vision_Statement_20170710.pdf

As an inaugural student and recent graduate, I have a strong stake in the reputation and continued success of my alma mater. These actions could not be supported by men of conscience or benevolent intent and so I submit my signature here in the hope that those responsible will do not what they must for their own sakes, but what is right for the University's.

Every college and university needs a Counseling Staff!!! With one out of every four women and one out of every eight men experiencing depression in the U.S., suicides are on the rise. Having a full-time Counselor or Psychologist on the staff at a university is as important as having Chairperson, Deans and College Presidents.

I am appalled by the actions and stance the administration has taken over the concerns of the students by the professors at Florida Polytechnic. As an alumni and an inaugural student I care greatly for the success of the university and it could never be possible without the dedicated professors willing to really teach students at a quality level. Administration has proven again and again they do not care about the students well beings or the professors that really contribute to one of the reasons why I valued my education at Poly. Let me be clear I appreciate my time at Poly I realize how many opportunities it gave me and I see the true potential in what it can be. It's this set of reasons why I truly wish for positive change. Get rid of the professors that truly care and Poly will never succeed as a state-of-the-art university. Students will realize that the university does not really care about their best interest (I'm sure they already feel that way now). I truly hope for positive change.

As a recent graduate from Florida Poly and a driving leader behind a student movement to bring accountability to this administration, I can say with no doubt that something must be done. I urge anyone who sees this to sign. Despite the extensive damage that has already been done by this corruption, the University can still course correct given a push in the right direction.

As a university professor and student advisor, I know the benefit of having on-campus counseling support for students. Especially, as seems to be the case here, where students find themselves in an environment which they feel is "toxic" -- with whatever meanings that may take on -- whether students may feel unsafe or marginalized or persecuted or ignored. For many reasons schools seem to have abandoned any pretense at operating in loco parentis -- but there are certainly situations in which they need to think of their students as their charges, their children, not simply as walking tuition providers.
